

Chipman Stool

The Chipman stool echoes the organic curves and hollows of the Chipman chair with a recontoured seating surface that is more compact and narrower at the front, wider at the back to provide support for the relaxed postures people assume when seated on a stool. The low back of the one piece cast aluminium stool grows organically out of the legs. The 736mm high stool and its companion standing height table are ideal for rooftop terrace and cafe settings where people gather for casual social engagement. Stools conveniently stack for storing.
